Microfilm isn't everything: Remember these Strategies for Success

Getting Started

- Write down what you know about every family member.
- Use pedigree charts and family group sheets to stay organized.
- Work backwards: Use what you know to frame your tree.
- Use what you don't know – your gaps – as your guide.
- Focus on one question – one gap – at a time. Seriously.
- Contact people who may know more than you - Older relatives, friends of the family, and of course, librarians. Ask for help.

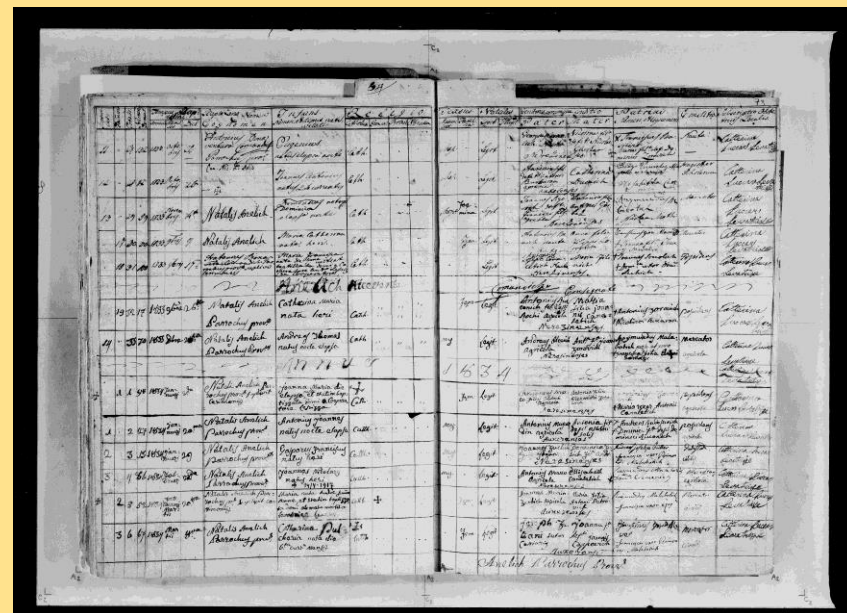

Search Smarter, not Harder!

Finding Records

- Records are organized by place, period, and type.
- Learn what kind of resources are available.
No one website, book, or newspaper will have all your answers.

Be Flexible and Open

- Be open to other possibilities than the ones you have always known or believed.
- Cast a wide net. If age or spelling doesn't match, but name and place are close, hold on to the record until you can prove or disprove it.
- Learn. Learn. Learn.

No one website has every record. You have to look at dozens, perhaps hundreds of websites and resources to find your fact. Always start with what's free.

Starting with FamilySearch.org

The screenshot shows the FamilySearch.org website in a web browser. The address bar displays "www.familysearch.org". The top navigation bar includes links for "Family Tree", "Search", "Memories", and "Indexing". On the right, there are links for "Volunteer", "Get Help", "Sign In", and "Free Account". A large blue banner on the left contains the text "Make Discoveries" and "Search for your ancestors in millions of historical records. You can also search in the catalog, books, genealogies, and the Wiki." Below this is a green button that says "Search historical records". A yellow arrow points from this button to the "Search" dropdown menu, which is open and shows options: "Records", "Family Tree", "Genealogies", "Catalog", "Books", and "Research Wiki". Below the banner is a row of icons for "Fan Chart", "Photos", "Family Tree", "Search" (highlighted in blue), "Indexing", and "Family Booklet". At the bottom, there are two main sections: "Get Your Free Account on" and "Do You Have a GEDCOM File? Preserve and Share Your Family Tree".

The screenshot shows the FamilySearch website interface. The top navigation bar includes links for Family Tree, Search, Memories, and Indexing. The main content area is divided into two columns. The left column, titled "Search Historical Records", contains several search filters: "Deceased Ancestor's Name" with fields for First Names and Last Names; "Search with a life event:" with links for Birth, Marriage, Residence, Death, and Any; "Search with a relationship:" with links for Spouse, Parents, and Other Person; and "Restrict records by:" with links for Location, Type, Batch Number, and Film Number. There are also input fields for Country and State or Province, and a checkbox for "Match all terms exactly". A yellow arrow points from the "Deceased Ancestor's Name" section to the "Research By Location" section. The right column, titled "Research By Location", features a world map and a link to "Find a Collection". Below the map, there is a "Find a Collection" section with a "Collection Title" input field and a link to "Browse all published collections". Another yellow arrow points from the "Restrict records by:" section to the "Browse all published collections" link.

The 'BOOKS' tab is highlighted with a green background and a large yellow arrow pointing to it. Below the navigation bar, the main heading is 'Family History Books'. Underneath this heading is a search bar with a 'Search' button and a link to 'Advanced Search'. A paragraph of text describes the collection: 'Family History Books is a collection of more than 350,000 digitized genealogy and family history publications from the archives of some of the most important family history libraries in the world. The collection includes family histories, county and local histories, genealogy magazines and how-to books, gazettes, and medieval histories and pedigrees. The valuable resources included in Family History Books come from the following partner institutions:'. Below this text is a list of partner institutions, including Allen County Public Library, American Fork Library, Arizona State Library, Archives and Public Records, Birmingham Public Library, Brigham Young University, Harold B. Lee Library, Brigham Young University, Hawaii Joseph F. Smith Library, Brigham Young University, Idaho David O. McKay Library, Church History Library, Family History Library, Historical Society of Pennsylvania, Houston Public Library - Clayton Library Center for Genealogical Research, Mid-Continent Public Library - Midwest Genealogy Center, Maine State Library, Onondaga County Public Library, and University of Florida, George A. Smathers Libraries. At the bottom of the page, there is a footer with links for 'About', 'Blog', 'Feedback', 'Site Map', 'App Gallery', 'Cookie Preferences', and 'English'. Below these links is a copyright notice: 'FamilySearch Rights and Use Information (Updated 2/3/2015) | Privacy Policy (Updated 3/18/2014) © 2017 by Intellectual Reserve, Inc. All rights reserved.
